

Cities and states that recognize Indigenous Peoples' Day/ Native American Day

 States where Indigenous Peoples' Day or Native American Day is a legal holiday, second Monday of October.

Note: Wisconsin recognizes Indigenous Peoples' Day through Executive Order.

 Cities and Counties that recognize Indigenous Peoples' Day or Native American Day.

The following states have issued proclamations declaring the second Monday of October to be Indigenous Peoples' Day. Proclamations recognize the holiday but are not legally binding:
Arizona, California, Idaho, Iowa, Louisiana, Michigan, Minnesota, Nevada, North Carolina, Virginia.

If your state, county, or city has recognized the holiday but is not included, email us at admin@worldwithoutgenocide.org